New York, Sept. 4-A special to the World from Philadelphia saye: H. H. Holmes, who is charged with wholesale insurance swindles and with saveral murders, and is now awaiting trial for the killing of B. F. Patzel, has not been idle in crime, although a closely guarded prisener in the Philadelphia rison. He has engineered what is obviusly a cunning scheme. Although def every procaution taken to prevent his communicating with anyone outside, seems be bas written what purports t be a sketch of his career. The law cillcere of the commonwealth have been astounded by the publication of advance sheets, and the announcement margins of other books in the solitude of his cell willshortly follow. They will be astounded further when they learn or the first time in this disputch that the volume is the outcome of an idea origicating in the brain of the prison which is all ready for working, to which the local authorities, being the orewarned, may perhaps forbid.

The scheme, worthy of a Holmes, is this: During his travels throughout the country he has bad business and social relations with many persons of undoubt ed respectability. He has with unusual cunning, kept a record of these traceactions. The major portion of their friendships were undoubtedly free from any suspicion of wrong doing, but they are to be made the vehicle for escuring sufficient funds for his defense. The opening chapters of his book, published in one of the local papers, are devoid of anything that would offend the most a-tidious. They rehearse the wrong loings of a New Hampshire lad whose subsequent career is not foreshadowed in any way. Innocent enough as the reminiscences may be, they are the groundwork of Holmes' bold stroke. The papers containing the opening chapters of the "book" will be unailed to these unfortunate enough to be classed among Holmes' friends.

Those who know Holmes will be in formed that they are to be part and parcel of the book. Intimations will be given that it will be un; leasant to be known in connection with its author. All mention of certain names will be ommitted-for a money consideration. There are chapters in the parrative that place some of the persons referred to in most unpopular position. Instance of the kind is here given.

One of the chapters is devoted to the B ston experiences of Holmes and Min-nie Williams. The woman, under the guilance of Holmes, entrapped a weal thy man of family. For a time, being led to believe that he had deeply wronged the girl, he made such or financial reparation as he deemed proper and the conscience fund found its way into Holmes' pocket. When Minni Williams dropped out of sight the Bos on man breathed freer, but when the awful revelations came his state of mind may be imagined.

Proof sheets, now being printed in a printing office near Sixth and Market streets, will be forwarded to the Boston man and this proposition made: If he will purchase 1000 copies of the book, ac companying the immediate order there for at the retail price thereof, $1 apiece s name will be omitted as well as matters that would in any way point to him. No doubt the Boston man, who can well afford it, will quickly order the book and enclose remittance for the same.

The dead man's skull was severed from the decomposed body last Sunday under orders from the district attorney.

New Your, Sept, 4 .- It was quite evident yesterday that the Morgan-Belmont bond syndicate expeated another large drain on the sub-treasury this week. At the opening of business it was announced that the Farmer's Loan and Trust company had deposited $2, 000,000 in the sub-trearury. No explenation of the deposit was made, but it was generally known that it was for the account of the syndicate and the be lief is confirmed later by Washington advices. This is the second financial instan tion to come to the aid of the syndicate. The first was the American Echange National bank, which deposited $500,000 about a week ago. At that time it was said that a number of national banks and financial institution which had been nembers of bond syndicate had agreed o sid Mesers, Morgan and Belmont is their efforts to keep the spirit of the contract with the government to maintain the gold reserve against exports in autee him immunity if he would tel veryway in their power.

The deposit today, while it was not included in the net gold reserve, will of ecessity maintain the reserve above $100,000,000. The reserve today was a trille in excess of $101,900,000. The first withdrawal of the week and month was nade by Nesslage & Fuller, who noti fied the treas ry officials that they would ship $100,000 in gold on an outgo ing steamship.

Later in the day Hoskies, Wood & Co. announced that they would require $1, 000,000 for shipment tomorrow, making shock the state. It is probable, it is total of $100, 100,000 ordered during the selves have made such terms with these be no sort of action against them which

Notwithstanding the continued gold shipments the feeling in financial circles ncerning the outlook was serene and nopeful. The possibility of the $100, to pour gold into the sub-tressury does not seem to be considered. This is due to the expectation that the movement of rope to Europe will before long causes a plentiful supply of commercial bills the in circulation and of necessity lower the rate of exchange to a figure which would practically prohibit the shipmen
